Challenging the status quo, the Constitution of the "Confederate States of America" is declared invalid. The Southern Confederate States, declared on November 21, 1860, are the first step towards the complete separation of the Southern states from the Union.

Challenging the status quo, the Constitution of the "Confederate States of America" is declared invalid. The Southern Confederate States, declared on November 21, 1860, are the first step towards the complete separation of the Southern states from the Union.

The war with Mr. Stephens on this point suggests one or two remarks: While the treaties in the Cabinet, the South in the Northern States, are being swept away by the rebellion, resisting the "writs of the South," the "aggression of the North," they court one by one voice that the seceders have wanted their rights under the Constitution that would simply alienate, and were sufficient to alienate all the Southern people from the rest of the nation.

The war is inevitable, but the treaty with the seceders is still an important factor. The war is inevitable; but the treaty with the seceders is still an important factor. My PEnNY DIP

What was it?—A tallow candle to be sure.

The gas wouldn't burn, the kerosene smouldered, and the tallow glowed with a soft, warm light. It was a lovely evening, the sky was clear and the air was fresh. I lit the candle and sat by the window, sipping my tea and enjoying the view.

I heard a knock at the door and opened it to find a young boy standing there.

"I'm sorry, sir," he said, "but I need a penny to light my mother's lantern. She's been waiting for me to go out and gather some wood for the stove.

I gave him a penny and watched as he disappeared into the night, his lantern casting a warm glow on the snowy streets.

I returned to my tea and my thoughts, grateful for the simple pleasures of life. It was a peaceful evening, and I found myself wondering what the future held for this young boy and his family.

TROUBLE IN ARIZONA.

It strikes us as very much to be regretted that Congress, in carrying out new territories at its last session, did not accord to the earnest demands made long since for the incorporation of the territory of Arizona.

Some of the officers who have been appointed to the military post, it is true, have made some advance towards the desired result, and have been able to do so without making much progress. Had such progress been made, the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad would likely have been established there.

The whole extent of the habitable territory is isolated from the rest of the state by several hundreds of miles of desert, and the railroad would thus be the only means of communication. The project of extending the railroad across the desert is under consideration, but the work is not yet begun.

At the same time the country is infested by white men who have no trouble on the frontier, and who are not afraid of the Indians. The population of the town of Prescott, the seat of government, is only about 3,000.

The region is very rich in minerals, and there are several mining camps, both in the desert and on the hills above the town.

The prospect of gold being found in the vicinity of the new railroad is very promising, and the line of the railroad is likely to be extended across the desert to the line of the railroads already in operation. The new railroad is likely to be constructed from the town of Prescott.

Ten Commandments.
The Ten Commandments, written on stone, are the most sacred laws of the Hebrews. The commandments are as follows:

1. You shall have no other gods before me.
2. You shall not make unto you any graven image, nor the likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, nor that is in the earth beneath, nor that is in the water under the earth.
3. You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain.
4. Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy.
5. Honor your father and your mother.
6. You shall not murder.
7. You shall not commit adultery.
8. You shall not steal.
9. You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.
10. You shall not covet.
