Staunton Spectator.

VOL. XXXV.

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA, TUESDAY, JUNE 1, 1858.

NO. XXV.

MISCELLANEOUS

AMERICAN HOTEL.

POETRY.

MISCELLANY.

We answer all inquiries regarding our stock of books, and all other matters, which will reach us in time to be insertet in this or our next number.

The subscriber begs leave to announce that he has obtained the privilege of printing the 'American' newspaper, which appears every Wednesday. He also publishes a weekly newspaper, which is in a fair way for a successful issue. The editor of the 'American' is Mr. C. B. Sargent, of Staunton, and the printer is Mr. W. H. P. Smith, of the same place. The price of the weekly newspaper is $1.00 per annum, payable in advance. The subscriber also publish a weekly newspaper, which is in a fair way for a successful issue. The editor of the 'American' is Mr. C. B. Sargent, of Staunton, and the printer is Mr. W. H. P. Smith, of the same place. The price of the weekly newspaper is $1.00 per annum, payable in advance.

The subscriber also publish a weekly newspaper, which is in a fair way for a successful issue. The editor of the 'American' is Mr. C. B. Sargent, of Staunton, and the printer is Mr. W. H. P. Smith, of the same place. The price of the weekly newspaper is $1.00 per annum, payable in advance.

The subscriber also publish a weekly newspaper, which is in a fair way for a successful issue. The editor of the 'American' is Mr. C. B. Sargent, of Staunton, and the printer is Mr. W. H. P. Smith, of the same place. The price of the weekly newspaper is $1.00 per annum, payable in advance.

The subscriber also publish a weekly newspaper, which is in a fair way for a successful issue. The editor of the 'American' is Mr. C. B. Sargent, of Staunton, and the printer is Mr. W. H. P. Smith, of the same place. The price of the weekly newspaper is $1.00 per annum, payable in advance.
THE AFRICAN TRACT.

The African Tract Association is a religious organization founded in London, England, in 1797 with the goal of providing aid and support to slaves and free people of color. The organization's primary mission was to facilitate the religious and moral education of African Americans, particularly in the United States. Over time, the African Tract Association expanded its efforts to advocate for the abolition of slavery, and its influence grew as it became a prominent voice in the abolitionist movement. The Association's work was crucial in spreading anti-slavery sentiments and providing support to those seeking freedom and equality.