To the People.

We speak in behalf of the people of the free States of the Union, and in the hope that by means of the electors of the country we will be enabled to secure the rights of the people of the free States of the Union from interference by the Federal Government. We believe that the people of the free States of the Union have a right to be heard upon the question of the extension of slavery, and that the people of the free States of the Union have a right to be heard upon the question of the protection of the property of the people of the free States of the Union.
