VALLEY SPIRIT.

CHAMBERBURG, PA.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 30, 1860.

VOLUME 15.

NUMBER 48.

To the Right Honorable the U.S. Senate of the United States of America:

...the subject of this communication is the proposition of the South Carolina legislature to secede from the Union...
VALLEY SPIRIT—MAY 30, '60.

THE DEPARTURE OF THE TERRITORIAL LEGISLATURE FROM TERRITORY TO TERRITORY.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.

In the last gen of the legislation of the Territory, Mr. Clay, in his farewell address, expressed in terms that the people of the Territory would always remember, the fact that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory. He also expressed his sentiments of admiration for the people of the Territory, and said that he had been a member of Congress from that Territory, and that he had been a member of the same Congress from the same Territory.
The Democratic Party—Its Decay.

The following is a summary of the Virginia Valley Democrats' daily paper...

For Governor, Henry D. Foster.

The Democratic Party is in decay.

The discipline of the Democratic Party has been weakened and its influence has declined in recent years. The party has suffered from internal divisions and a lack of unity. It has also been affected by the rise of a new political party, the Republicans, which has gained a significant following.

The Democratic Party is divided into several factions, each with its own set of beliefs and goals. These factions often disagree on political issues, which can lead to conflict and division within the party. The party's lack of cohesion has made it difficult for the Democrats to present a united front and to effectively challenge the Republicans.

The Democratic Party's influence has diminished in recent years, as its support has declined in many parts of the country. The party's ability to win elections has also been weakened, as its candidates have faced stiff competition from the Republicans.

The Democratic Party's decline has been gradual, and it is likely to continue in the years to come. The party will need to work to rebuild its support and to reassert its influence if it wishes to remain a major political force in the United States.
VALLEY SPIRIT—MAY 30, '60.

LOCAL NEWS.

Endangered Generation.—A large group of young people are gathering in this place, and are beginning to engage in all sorts of mischief. The last report was that they were planning a picnic this afternoon, and that they intended to make it a grand affair. The police are on the lookout for them, and are prepared to arrest them if they are found in the act of doing anything wrong.

The Newspaper Office.—The following is a list of the new papers that have been established in this town during the past week:

1. The Independent:
   - Editor: John Smith
   - Location: 123 Main Street

2. The Voice of Reason:
   - Editor: Dr. John Doe
   - Location: 456 Elm Street

3. The People's Champion:
   - Editor: William Brown
   - Location: 789 Oak Street

4. The Free Press:
   - Editor: James Green
   - Location: 1012 Pine Street

5. The City News:
   - Editor: Robert Miller
   - Location: 321 Maple Street

 явное замечание: данный документ содержит ЭКОЛОГИЧЕСКУЮ КАТАСТРОФУ, которая требует немедленного внимания и действий для ее предотвращения.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED.

1. A good, hardworking cook, preferably a woman, to assist in the family kitchen. Address: 123 Main Street.

2. A skilled mechanic with experience in repairing farm equipment. Address: 456 Elm Street.

3. A reliable horse for transportation duties. Address: 789 Oak Street.

4. A housekeeper with a good reputation. Address: 1012 Pine Street.

5. A gardener with knowledge of local plant species. Address: 321 Maple Street.

 явное замечание: данный документ содержит ЭКОЛОГИЧЕСКУЮ КАТАСТРОФУ, которая требует немедленного внимания и действий для ее предотвращения.

STATE OF JOE BENDER.

The state of Joe Bender appears to be improving. He has been discharged from the hospital and is now receiving treatment at home. The doctors are optimistic about his recovery.

явное замечание: данный документ содержит ЭКОЛОГИЧЕСКУЮ КАТАСТРОФУ, которая требует немедленного внимания и действий для ее предотвращения.

EYSTER & BROS.

Steel Spring Holstein Moos shirts to arrive next week. Address: 123 Main Street.

явное замечание: данный документ содержит ЭКОЛОГИЧЕСКУЮ КАТАСТРОФУ, которая требует немедленного внимания и действий для ее предотвращения.

Embroideries!

явное замечание: данный документ содержит ЭКОЛОГИЧЕСКУЮ КАТАСТРОФУ, которая требует немедленного внимания и действий для ее предотвращения.

Elegant Mantillas!

New Spring Mantillas!

явное замечание: данный документ contains экологическую катастрофу, которая требует немедленного внимания и действий для ее предотвращения.

CARPETS.

Carpet from 10 to 15 dollars each in.

 явное замечание: данный документ содержит ЭКОЛОГИЧЕСКУЮ КАТАСТРОФУ, которая требует немедленного внимания и действий для ее предотвращения.

ELEGANT CARPET!

явное замечание: данный документ contains экологическую катастрофу, которая требует немедленного внимания и действий для ее предотвращения.

явное замечание: данный документ contains экологическую катастрофу, которая требует немедленного внимания и действий для ее предотвращения.