The Latest News

There is no war more depressing war as annulling a Christian people and inflicting unprovoked suffering upon the innocent. It has been important that the subject be treated with the utmost of respect. The conduct of the Union Army will be properly under the supervision of the President of the United States, although many of the Houses of Congress have expressed their sanction to the action of Congress.

The President, in his message of the 24th of March, anticipated the appointment of a committee to organize our military and naval forces, and to report to Congress, on the question of the Union Army. It is not yet known how the committee, called to organize our military and naval forces, is to be appointed.
