WASHINGTON, July 22.

From Col. T. M. Pettistre, Assistant Adjutant General of Massachusetts:

General order, May 22, 1861.

A regiment of the 4th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, under the command of Col. T. M. Pettistre, was ordered on duty at Washington. 500 men of this regiment were sent to the State of Virginia, and 500 to the State of Maryland. The regiment is attached to the Department of the Potomac, and will remain there until further orders. The regiment consists of five companies, A, B, C, D, and E. The companies are now under arms at Washington, and are expected to march to the District of Columbia as soon as possible. The regiment is commanded by Col. T. M. Pettistre, and the field officers are Maj. J. S. Young, 1st regiment, and Capt. F. W. H. Fitch, 2nd regiment. The companies are commanded by Capt. A. H. Brackett, 1st regiment, and Capt. A. H. Brackett, 2nd regiment.

A regiment of the 5th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, under the command of Col. T. M. Pettistre, was ordered on duty at Washington. 500 men of this regiment were sent to the State of Virginia, and 500 to the State of Maryland. The regiment is attached to the Department of the Potomac, and will remain there until further orders. The regiment consists of five companies, A, B, C, D, and E. The companies are now under arms at Washington, and are expected to march to the District of Columbia as soon as possible. The regiment is commanded by Col. T. M. Pettistre, and the field officers are Maj. J. S. Young, 1st regiment, and Capt. F. W. H. Fitch, 2nd regiment. The companies are commanded by Capt. A. H. Brackett, 1st regiment, and Capt. A. H. Brackett, 2nd regiment.

A regiment of the 6th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, under the command of Col. T. M. Pettistre, was ordered on duty at Washington. 500 men of this regiment were sent to the State of Virginia, and 500 to the State of Maryland. The regiment is attached to the Department of the Potomac, and will remain there until further orders. The regiment consists of five companies, A, B, C, D, and E. The companies are now under arms at Washington, and are expected to march to the District of Columbia as soon as possible. The regiment is commanded by Col. T. M. Pettistre, and the field officers are Maj. J. S. Young, 1st regiment, and Capt. F. W. H. Fitch, 2nd regiment. The companies are commanded by Capt. A. H. Brackett, 1st regiment, and Capt. A. H. Brackett, 2nd regiment.

A regiment of the 7th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, under the command of Col. T. M. Pettistre, was ordered on duty at Washington. 500 men of this regiment were sent to the State of Virginia, and 500 to the State of Maryland. The regiment is attached to the Department of the Potomac, and will remain there until further orders. The regiment consists of five companies, A, B, C, D, and E. The companies are now under arms at Washington, and are expected to march to the District of Columbia as soon as possible. The regiment is commanded by Col. T. M. Pettistre, and the field officers are Maj. J. S. Young, 1st regiment, and Capt. F. W. H. Fitch, 2nd regiment. The companies are commanded by Capt. A. H. Brackett, 1st regiment, and Capt. A. H. Brackett, 2nd regiment.

A regiment of the 8th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, under the command of Col. T. M. Pettistre, was ordered on duty at Washington. 500 men of this regiment were sent to the State of Virginia, and 500 to the State of Maryland. The regiment is attached to the Department of the Potomac, and will remain there until further orders. The regiment consists of five companies, A, B, C, D, and E. The companies are now under arms at Washington, and are expected to march to the District of Columbia as soon as possible. The regiment is commanded by Col. T. M. Pettistre, and the field officers are Maj. J. S. Young, 1st regiment, and Capt. F. W. H. Fitch, 2nd regiment. The companies are commanded by Capt. A. H. Brackett, 1st regiment, and Capt. A. H. Brackett, 2nd regiment.