War News.

Chambersburg, Pa.

Exchange of the day.

The parting cannon shivered the earth and the sea, and the empty bay was dark as night, yet the day was over.

Late from Washington:

President Lincoln to ask Congress for money.

The President this morning delivered a message to Congress asking for a appropriation of $50,000,000.

The message was as follows:

"The President of the United States, to the Congress of the United States:

"In the discharge of the duties devolving upon me as the Chief Executive of the Government of the United States, I have been led to believe that the present condition of the country requires a larger force of regular soldiers than it now possesses.

"I have, therefore, requested the Secretary of War to call the militia of the several States into the service of the United States to suppress insurrection, and to enforce the execution of the laws of the Union.

"This call is necessary to the public safety, and the President thus acts in pursuance of his constitutional duty, as heretofore exercised in like cases.

"I have also directed the Secretary of War to notify the several States of the readiness of the United States to bearing the expenses of the troops now in the field, and to complete the necessary preparations for a larger force.

"I therefore look to the Congress for the necessary funds to carry into effect the measures which I have deemed it necessary to adopt for the preservation of the Union and the security of the people.

"I am, therefore, respectfully, your obedient servant,"

President Lincoln.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 17.

President Lincoln has just arrived at the White House.

The President is expected to make a statement to the press at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

LATE FROM FEDERAL HEADQUARTERS.

President Lincoln to ask Congress for money.

The President this morning delivered a message to Congress asking for a appropriation of $50,000,000.

The message was as follows:

"The President of the United States, to the Congress of the United States:

"In the discharge of the duties devolving upon me as the Chief Executive of the Government of the United States, I have been led to believe that the present condition of the country requires a larger force of regular soldiers than it now possesses.

"I have, therefore, requested the Secretary of War to call the militia of the several States into the service of the United States to suppress insurrection, and to enforce the execution of the laws of the Union.

"This call is necessary to the public safety, and the President thus acts in pursuance of his constitutional duty, as heretofore exercised in like cases.

"I have also directed the Secretary of War to notify the several States of the readiness of the United States to bearing the expenses of the troops now in the field, and to complete the necessary preparations for a larger force.

"I therefore look to the Congress for the necessary funds to carry into effect the measures which I have deemed it necessary to adopt for the preservation of the Union and the security of the people.

"I am, therefore, respectfully, your obedient servant,"

President Lincoln.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 17.

President Lincoln has just arrived at the White House.

The President is expected to make a statement to the press at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

LATE FROM FEDERAL HEADQUARTERS.

President Lincoln to ask Congress for money.

The President this morning delivered a message to Congress asking for a appropriation of $50,000,000.

The message was as follows:

"The President of the United States, to the Congress of the United States:

"In the discharge of the duties devolving upon me as the Chief Executive of the Government of the United States, I have been led to believe that the present condition of the country requires a larger force of regular soldiers than it now possesses.

"I have, therefore, requested the Secretary of War to call the militia of the several States into the service of the United States to suppress insurrection, and to enforce the execution of the laws of the Union.

"This call is necessary to the public safety, and the President thus acts in pursuance of his constitutional duty, as heretofore exercised in like cases.

"I have also directed the Secretary of War to notify the several States of the readiness of the United States to bearing the expenses of the troops now in the field, and to complete the necessary preparations for a larger force.

"I therefore look to the Congress for the necessary funds to carry into effect the measures which I have deemed it necessary to adopt for the preservation of the Union and the security of the people.

"I am, therefore, respectfully, your obedient servant,"

President Lincoln.
The Valley Spirit.

The United States.

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

Told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, is of the same nature of

Our daily papers are filled with reports of

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most

The example of one of the most notorious cases of any slave market in the country, as it is the most

The story is told in a recent number of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser, as it is the most
Valley Spirit

Franklin County—Returns of Election held October 8, 1861.

Districts

Canby 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th

Conway 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th

Dorchester 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th

Elmira 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th

Listowel 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st

Magazine 32nd, 33rd, 34th, 35th, 36th, 37th

The returns from different parts of the State come in very slowly, but the general results of the election are already known. In nearly every election, the result that is sought for is a straight ticket. Even in the few district returns that have been received, it is clear that the straight ticket is carrying the day, while the old-faithful Republicans, those who have stood by the State, have stubbornly opposed the opposition in the Senate, the legislature, and the State at large. It is not yet passed, as the returns from the different districts are not all in, but it is evident that the Republican ticket is carrying the day.

The returns from the different parts of the State come in very slowly, but the general results of the election are already known. In nearly every election, the result that is sought for is a straight ticket. Even in the few district returns that have been received, it is clear that the straight ticket is carrying the day, while the old-faithful Republicans, those who have stood by the State, have stubbornly opposed the opposition in the Senate, the legislature, and the State at large. It is not yet passed, as the returns from the different districts are not all in, but it is evident that the Republican ticket is carrying the day.

The returns from the different parts of the State come in very slowly, but the general results of the election are already known. In nearly every election, the result that is sought for is a straight ticket. Even in the few district returns that have been received, it is clear that the straight ticket is carrying the day, while the old-faithful Republicans, those who have stood by the State, have stubbornly opposed the opposition in the Senate, the legislature, and the State at large. It is not yet passed, as the returns from the different districts are not all in, but it is evident that the Republican ticket is carrying the day.

The returns from the different parts of the State come in very slowly, but the general results of the election are already known. In nearly every election, the result that is sought for is a straight ticket. Even in the few district returns that have been received, it is clear that the straight ticket is carrying the day, while the old-faithful Republicans, those who have stood by the State, have stubbornly opposed the opposition in the Senate, the legislature, and the State at large. It is not yet passed, as the returns from the different districts are not all in, but it is evident that the Republican ticket is carrying the day.