VALLEY SPIRIT.

CHAMBERSBURG, PA.

VOLUME 15.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 20, 1862.

NUMBER 30.

War News.

PART BIDDLELAND-VICTORY.

Particulars of the Last Day's Battle.

CLARKESVILLE THE NEXT POINT OF ATTACK.

Further Details.

The Federal troops of the Army of the Potomac, under Gen. George B. McClellan, crossed the Ohio River at Biddleland and withdrew the British troops from the vicinity of Clarksburg.

Lately from the Cumberland River.

THE FIGHTING OF THE WAR.

The United States Army in Georgia.

The War in the West.

The Rebels in the West.

From Washington.

Important News from the Seat of War.

The U.S. Steamer "Great Bear" at the Seat of War.

From Charleston and Savannah.

From General Headquarters.

The War in the West.

The War in the East.

The War in the South.

CUMBERLAND RIVER.

Lately from the Cumberland River.

The Rebels in the West.

The War in the South.

Washington, D.C.

Important News from the Seat of War.

The U.S. Steamer "Great Bear" at the Seat of War.

From Charleston and Savannah.

From General Headquarters.

The War in the West.

The War in the East.

The War in the South.
The question now upon the touch of the high authorities and the people of the United States is, what will be done in case of a similar invasion of the Southern States? Will they be content with mere demands for the payment of the money due on the Southern States, or will they proceed to conquer the country and establish a new government in their stead? The latter course appears to be the one that is most likely to be adopted, as the Southern States seem to be determined to resist any attempt to compel them to comply with the demands of the Northern States.

The Southern States are not likely to yield to any pressure, and are determined to maintain their independence. They have a strong army and navy, and are well equipped for war. The Northern States, on the other hand, are not in a position to attack the Southern States with impunity. The Northern States do not have a large army or navy, and are not well equipped for war. The Northern States are also not likely to yield to any pressure, and are determined to maintain their independence. The Southern States and the Northern States are likely to continue to fight each other, and the outcome of the war is uncertain.

The Southern States are likely to have the advantage, as they have a larger and more experienced army and navy. The Northern States are likely to have the disadvantage, as they are not well equipped for war. The Southern States are also likely to have the advantage, as they have a larger and more experienced army and navy. The Northern States are likely to have the disadvantage, as they are not well equipped for war. The Southern States and the Northern States are likely to continue to fight each other, and the outcome of the war is uncertain.

The Southern States are likely to have the advantage, as they have a larger and more experienced army and navy. The Northern States are likely to have the disadvantage, as they are not well equipped for war. The Southern States are also likely to have the advantage, as they have a larger and more experienced army and navy. The Northern States are likely to have the disadvantage, as they are not well equipped for war. The Southern States and the Northern States are likely to continue to fight each other, and the outcome of the war is uncertain.

The Southern States are likely to have the advantage, as they have a larger and more experienced army and navy. The Northern States are likely to have the disadvantage, as they are not well equipped for war. The Southern States are also likely to have the advantage, as they have a larger and more experienced army and navy. The Northern States are likely to have the disadvantage, as they are not well equipped for war. The Southern States and the Northern States are likely to continue to fight each other, and the outcome of the war is uncertain.

The Southern States are likely to have the advantage, as they have a larger and more experienced army and navy. The Northern States are likely to have the disadvantage, as they are not well equipped for war. The Southern States are also likely to have the advantage, as they have a larger and more experienced army and navy. The Northern States are likely to have the disadvantage, as they are not well equipped for war. The Southern States and the Northern States are likely to continue to fight each other, and the outcome of the war is uncertain.
The page contains a large amount of text, including advertisements, articles, and notices. The content appears to be a newspaper page with various columns and sections. The text is too dense to transcribe accurately without the use of specialized software. The page includes advertisements for various goods and services, news articles, and possibly local community information. The layout is typical of 19th-century newspapers, with multiple columns and paragraphs filled with text.
VALLEY SPIRIT.

MEDICAL.

[Content not legible due to image quality and size]

MISCELLANEOUS.

[Content not legible due to image quality and size]

PROFESSIONAL GAZETTE.

[Content not legible due to image quality and size]

MISCELLANEOUS.

[Content not legible due to image quality and size]
NOTICE!

MILLER & HEMSEY

ALWAYS HAVE ON HAND A FULL SUPPLY OF PROPER).

GARDEN SEEDS.

FRYER'S LAMPS

100 Dozen

KEROSENE LAMPS

LOWEST PRICES.

EYSTER'S

Wholesale Lamp Merchants

625 Main St.,

CINCINNATI, O.

SIDE LAMPS.

STAND LAMPS.

MARBLE BOTTOM.

HAND LAMPS.

LANTERNS.

SHADES.

PARAFINE CANDLES.

OIL DEPARTMENT.

Price.

The best and purest Paraffine Oil at 40 cents per gallon.

LUBRICATION OILS.

BENZOL.

BELL RINGING.

SPARKING PLUGS.

CARRIAGE DUTY.

HATCH & CARM.

The Fort Royal Inn, New Orleans.

Superiority and just deal.

E. & S.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.

10.00.

E. & S.