The FIRST OF APRIL.

In every clime.

"Tom, and Ann Hattery, laying out their new dresses for the first time since last winter, when we received our firstauthority from home April 1. I don't know about the future, she said, 'but what about the present?"

If there was one special thing that the Hattery girls liked, it was the new dresses they received from their mother. Ann was always the first to show them off, and Tom would follow, always looking for approval. They had moved to the new town of Mayerhall from a small village, and Tom had been fascinated by the large houses and the fancy clothes he saw. Mayerhall was very different from their old home, but Tom was determined to make the most of it.

"One day, while Tom was at school, Ann came home with a new dress. She was so happy, she couldn't stop talking about it. It was a beautiful dress, made of the finest silk, and it had a long train. Tom was so impressed that he decided to make her a similar dress for her birthday. He worked hard all summer to save up enough money, and when he finally had enough, he went to the tailor's shop and bought the materials.

"When Tom brought the dress home, Ann was overjoyed. She ran to her room and got dressed in it, and then she went downstairs to show it off to everyone. She was so proud, and everyone was impressed by the dress. Tom was delighted, and he knew that he had made the right choice.

A SHORT STORY FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Pet's Adventure.

Pet was a curious and lively little girl, always ready to explore. One day, she saw a group of children playing a game called 'Pattie Cakes.' She watched them, fascinated by the game, and decided to join in.

"I'm going to join in the game," she said to her mother, "I want to see what it's like." Emma was hesitant, having never played the game herself, but she knew her daughter was curious and would want to try something new.

"Go ahead, Pet," she said, "but be careful. These games can be dangerous." Pet nodded and ran off to join the others.

The game was called 'Pattie Cakes,' and it involved chasing each other around the house, trying to catch the others. Pet had a lot of fun, but she soon found herself in trouble. She had accidentally knocked over a vase, and the game had to be stopped.

"We have to clean up," said the leader of the game. "And you, Pet, you made a mess. You have to stay and help." Pet was upset, but she knew she had to do her share.

The game was over, and the children scattered. Pet was left alone, feeling small and lonely. She had enjoyed the game, but now she had to face the consequences of her actions.

As she cleaned up the mess, Pet realized that she had made a mistake. She had acted without thinking, and now she had to suffer the consequences. She felt ashamed, and she vowed to be more careful in the future.

In the end, Pet learned an important lesson. She had to be responsible for her actions, and she had to think before she acted. She had a lot of fun playing 'Pattie Cakes,' but she knew she couldn't do it again without thinking twice.

THE NATIONAL PLAN FOR THE WAR!

The true friends of the Union are now convinced that the Southern people are a nation, and that their wants and interests are best served by a continued struggle with their neighbors, and that the government, in the shape of the Southern people, is not only necessary, but is also the best means of preserving the Union. The true friends of the Union are now convinced that the Southern people are a nation, and that their wants and interests are best served by a continued struggle with their neighbors, and that the government, in the shape of the Southern people, is not only necessary, but is also the best means of preserving the Union.

A Strong Holding Up.
The Harpers' Ferry, telegraphed a letter from the editor of the Washington Bee, in the following terms:

"Mr. Speaker,

The national demand was very strong at the present time, and the object of the people of the country was to enforce it, and to make it a matter of national importance. The object of the people of the country is to enforce it, and to make it a matter of national importance.

I am, etc.,

LOCAL NEWS

Norfolk. - Mr. W. Boice, late proprietor of the Daily Eagle, has returned to Norfolk and is present at the Central Market in the capacity of the National Bank, where he is taking orders from the public. Mr. Boice has been away from the city for some time, but has been very successful in his business. He is now in the process of organizing a large and successful business.

How to Get the News. - To the Editor of the Shenandoah Journal: - We have been informed by a friend that the Shenandoah Journal is in circulation in the city and that it is very successful in its efforts to obtain information about the war. We understand that the Journal is being circulated by hand, and that the subscribers are paying for the papers in advance. We hope that the Journal will continue its excellent work in the future.

Gloria's Baby Book. - A new edition of the Baby Book, containing the latest and most important information about the care of babies, has been published. It is a valuable work, and should be in every family library.

Potatoes at Market. - May 1. - The price of potatoes at market is very high, and will probably continue so for some time. The supply is small, and the demand is large.

Kneading-Bread. - The kneading of bread is a very important operation, and should be done with care. The flour should be mixed with the water and salt, and the dough should be kneaded for a few minutes before it is put into the tin. The dough should be allowed to rise for an hour before it is baked.

HEALTHY PRACTICE. - We have received the following letter from a subscriber:

"I am glad to hear that you are publishing a letter-writing book. I have been a subscriber for some time, and I have always found your work very useful. I am now writing a letter to my friend in New York, and I am sure that your book will help me to write a letter that will be understood."

The subscriber's name is Mrs. J. Smith, of Shenandoah.

SECRETARY. - We have received the following letter from a subscriber:

"I am writing to express my opinion of your work. I have always found it very useful, and I am sure that it will be of great benefit to many people."

The subscriber's name is Mr. J. Johnson, of Shenandoah.

LETTER FROM THE BATTLEFIELD. - We have received the following letter from a subscriber:

"I am writing to express my opinion of your work. I have always found it very useful, and I am sure that it will be of great benefit to many people."

The subscriber's name is Mr. J. Johnson, of Shenandoah.

THE MARKETS.

New York. - The price of cotton is very high, and will probably continue so for some time. The supply is small, and the demand is large.

Washington, D.C. - The price of bread is very high, and will probably continue so for some time. The supply is small, and the demand is large.

EXHIBITION. - The exhibition of the latest and most important inventions is being held in the city. It is a very successful exhibition, and many people are visiting it daily.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

"What is the best way to keep things clean?" - "Why, my dear, the best way is to use my new clean-up powder. It is the most effective and the most convenient."

"I heard you were going to be in town." - "Yes, I am. I am going to give a lecture on the latest inventions." - "Oh, I should like to hear it." - "Well, you can come. The lecture is free for all."
