Mr. Duray. I refer to the House on a former occasion that the committee had received $500,000 in gold, and at sand when they did not care whether they kept it or not, and that there was no evidence of a pouitou, nor any of these officers or men who, I believe, have a reputation of it. I do not mean to say that it is not the case, or that the committee did not, in my opinion, have a reputation of it. I do not mean to say that it is not the case, or that the committee did not take it. I do not mean to say that it is not the case, or that the committee did not take it. Retailers.

To the Editor:—We have to say that our correspondent is mistaken in his statement that there is no market for our goods in this town. We have been selling our goods in this town ever since we came here, and we have never had a better time. We have been very successful in our business, and we have made a great deal of money. We are now going to open a new store in this town, and we are going to do a great deal of business. We are going to sell our goods at a very low price, and we are going to make a great deal of money.

Yours truly,

A. B. Smith.

THE NATIONAL PLATFORM:

Purpose of the War

Consensus, by a vote nearly unanimous, passed the following resolution, calling for the purpose of the war.

The resolution declared that the object of the war is the preservation of the Union, the abolition of slavery, and the restoration of the Southern states to the Union.

The resolution also called for the immediate mobilization of the nation's forces and the preparation for war.

The resolution concluded by calling for the nation to unite and fight for the preservation of the Union and the abolition of slavery.

The resolution was passed unanimously by the House of Representatives.

The National Platform

The National Platform is a statement of the purposes and objectives of the war. It was approved by the Republican Party in 1860 and served as a guide for the actions of the Republican administration during the Civil War.

The platform called for the immediate abolition of slavery and the reunification of the country.

The platform also called for the expansion of the Union and the protection of the Republic.

The platform was endorsed by the leaders of the Republican Party, including Abraham Lincoln, who was a strong proponent of the platform.

The platform was a guiding document for the actions of the Republican administration during the Civil War.

The platform was also a source of inspiration for the soldiers who fought in the Civil War, as it helped them to understand the purpose of their sacrifices.

The platform continues to be an important document in American history, as it reminds us of the ideal of a united and free nation.
