VOL. 15. WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 2, 1862.

NUMBER 1.

What I have seen, and what I believe, the condition of the people of the United States at the present time is this: We have a government that is not only inadequate, but that is absolutely inadequate to the duties of the government of a republic. It is a government that is not only inefficient, but that is absolutely inefficient. It is a government that is not only corrupt, but that is absolutely corrupt. It is a government that is not only inefficient, but that is absolutely inefficient. It is a government that is not only corrupt, but that is absolutely corrupt.

There are many who say that the government of the United States is not only inadequate, but that it is absolutely inadequate to the duties of the government of a republic. They say that the government is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. They say that the government is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt. They say that the government is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. They say that the government is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt.

But I say, with all due respect to those who say that the government of the United States is not only inadequate, but that it is absolutely inadequate to the duties of the government of a republic, that our government is not only inadequate, but that it is absolutely inadequate to the duties of the government of a republic. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt.

The government of the United States is not only inadequate, but that it is absolutely inadequate to the duties of the government of a republic. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt.

It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt.

The government of the United States is not only inadequate, but that it is absolutely inadequate to the duties of the government of a republic. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt.

It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt.

The government of the United States is not only inadequate, but that it is absolutely inadequate to the duties of the government of a republic. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. It is not only corrupt, but that it is absolutely corrupt. It is not only inefficient, but that it is absolutely inefficient. THE BROWNIE'S LESSON.

"Look, fellow, here's what the Brownie tells us.

The remark and question came straight from Aunt Hattie, who had sat on one arm of the fire and taken tea with her feet on the other.

"I feel safer just at this time, aunt," said the little fellow, "for they stick so close and look so odd.

"I've been told what it is, and how do I know it's right?"" asked the boy.

"If you feel it's right, then, you've got the sense to do it.

"Eh, my dear!"" said Aunt Hattie, "if you feel it's right, you've got the sense to do it."

"Oh, yes, I do feel it's right," said the boy, "and I feel it's the right thing to do it."

"If you do feel it's right, then, you've got the sense to do it."

"I'll do it, aunt," said the boy, "and I'll do it."

CHAMBERSBURG, JULY 2, 1862.

The national platform.

The purpose of the war.

Chambersburg is a town on the Royal Mail Route, which is said to extend from New York to the headwaters of the Susquehanna, and is almost in the center of the state. It is in the county of Franklin, and is one of the principal towns in the state. The principal business is the manufacture of woolen and worsted goods.

Democratic State Convention.

Governor Davis, of Kentucky, is the Democratic candidate for the Senate of the United States. He is a native of that state, and has been a member of the legislature for several years. He is a man of moderate intelligence, but has a strong bias against the Union, and is a strong advocate of the secession of the state. The Management of the War.

The management of the war is said to be in the hands of the Union government. They are said to be managing the war efficiently, and are said to be making good progress. They are said to be managing the war efficiently, and are said to be making good progress.

The Two Parties.

The policy and aims of the two parties are said to be very different. The Democratic party is said to be trying to maintain the Union, and to preserve the Union at all costs. The Whig party is said to be trying to preserve the Union, but is also said to be willing to compromise in order to achieve this goal.
