If the set was a lawful, its consequences could not impose a penalty. But with due deference to the nembers of the court of inquiry—not one of whose names have we ever heard—we insist that the act was a gross infraction of the regulations, an irreparable wrong to society and a fargman violation of moral and civil right. He went in search of the absented men of his command without a patrol, as was his duty, and he did not seek, nor was he prepared, to arrest them and return them under guard. On the contrary he hooks in upon them without his side-arms—the usual mark of office to command their obeliance, and when they attempted to return to their camp and escape the penalty of arrest, he had no snore right to fire upon them than he had to shoot at any citizen on the starters. They were not seeking to desert, nor to get away from duty; but on the contrary were, as was clearly proven on the inquiry, seeking to get to their quarters, where he could have arrested and poundand them for absence without leave at this leisure; and his fring upon them and the killing of Mr. Redmon was simply a wanton, deliberate nunder.—There was no provocation other than that they took as irregular way to return to their quarters, jiets as he took an irregular way to make them does not admit that even in a case of mutiny, or conduct tending to this great erime, it was justifiable for an officer to shoot down the leader or leaders, until the men down as fif they were oven because they attempt to return to their duty in an irregular way to make them does not made that human life shall be made in my did not country. —We believe that Capt 'Underthill has merita as a soldier, a house of those whose especial duty it is to enfect the substance of those whose especial duty it is to enfect the last count of these with a spating tide of nurvice to the substa

Against this appulling ovil this journal has consistently and correctly raised its voice. It has beneved the heasted perjointcess of its party in demonateing violence because of real or imaginary disloyaly; in our midst, and it has, with steadfast, unfailtering faith in the supressary of law, appealed to every citizen to look above the passions of the day to the common welfare of a free people.

Pive years age a marder in our midst excited the liveliest concern on the part of our entire population. However humble the victim or the criminal, the public mind was started, and followed the often fully vindicated. Our court room would be crowded to overflowing when a citizen was charged with the grave crime of taking the life of one of his fellows, and had justice failed to vindicates its high personatives, there would have exceeded the peasity ment evil duty of the citizen:

—Lot us now glance for a moment at the fearful change a few years of war has wrought in our midet, and there are for dispanalenate men who will not be itartical at the wide-spread disregard of law that has insensibly grown up amongst us. On the second Toneday of Gotober, 1883, three men med death by violence in this county. An alterestical in Waynesbory resulted in the instant death of Mr. Unger at the judges of election of Hamilton was shot lead the manner of the second Toneday of the death of the manner by a coldier who fired upon one of his companions; and a sedder of the same spand was shot by accident the same night and mortally wounded. Thus the election day of 1863 gave us three violent deaths in Franklin county—two of whom were respected citizens, and the other an unoffending soldier. During the last numer a coldier was found on the premises of Mr. Gabby brutully sundered, and it is not doubted that it was a most deliberate and struction murder to firefillate a robbery. But a short time ago. Mr. Sweitzer, one of our most worthy citizens, was creally surdered near his own door; and it is only a few weeks since Lieot. Underhill. In command of this post, deliberately shot down and killed each of the comment of the criminal. The same who killed Mr. Cobbe, of Hamilton, and the law has in no instance vindicated its power by the punishment of the criminal. The same who killed Mr. Cobbe, of Hamilton, and the sadder the manne right, were held to be seedenated and the author or authors were unknown: the supposed murdered of the comment of the criminal. Our political sky is brightening fast. Wherever our flag is advanced its hrave defenders take no step beckwards. During the last year the rebels have continually lost ground. They have been driven from the busis of the Rappahamock, from the busis of the Rappahamock, from the Valley of Virginia, from the States of west Virginia, Tennessee, Keutucky and Missouri. Sherman has marched through their Condenies from one end to the other. With the exception of Lee's they have no army left worthly of the name. Their shied cities are in our hands and three-fourth of their territory. Their iron-lad faeth has ceased to exist, and of all the fleet plrates that indested the seas one year ago, destroying our commerce, but one is heard of now—the Tallahasee. Their people in many parts of the Confederacy are actually suffering for the commonest necessaries of life. They despair of their cause, and thin whispers of peace begin to be heard. Disaftection begins to raise (as head, and soon a rebellion within a rebellion with the head.
