War News.

ATTACK UPON A SCOUTING PARTY.
A DELAWARE COMPANY EN-GAGED.

Arrival of Pennsylvania Regiments
at Fortress Monroe.

Fortress Monroe, Nov. 21.
This morning, about ten o'clock, Company A, of the First Delaware Regiment, left Camp Hamilton on a scouting expedition. The corps was under command of Captain Watson, of Wilmington. They crossed Chesapeake creek, and when about one and a half miles beyond our outer pickets encountered a considerable body of Rebel cavalry, who were accompanied by two field howitzers, brass field pieces,
and the first intimation the Delawareans
had of the enemy's position was near approach, the whistling of a projectile
through the woods and underbrush.

Capt. Watson then threw up a temporary defense of brushwood and earth, after advancing to an eligible position, and sent back for reinforcements.

Gen. Mansfield, accompanied by three companies of the New York 20th, Col. Max
Wesley, proceeded to the relief of the brave Delawareans.

At the time that the host left Fortress Monroe, neither the Delawareans or the Rebels had been definitely heard from although a report was current that the former had suffered a loss of four men.

General Wool and staff rode out to the vicinity of Hampton about four o'clock
this afternoon.

The Forty-fifth Pennsylvania Regiment
Colonel Welch arrived at Fortress Monroe,
this afternoon, on the steamer "Phoenicia."
They came by the way of Harrisburg and Baltimore.

The Seventy-sixth Pennsylvania Regiment, Colonel Powers, is now encamped just beyond the Fort, and on the road to Back River. The men have not yet received their arms, but will do so immediately.

FROM MISSOURI.
A Prisoner of War Amnistrated.
St. Louis, Nov. 21.

Judge Thomas L. Richards, who has been confined as a prisoner of war in the hands of Col. Moore, of the Home Guards, was shot dead while standing at the window of the Court House, in Memphis, Tennessee county, on Monday last. Col.
Moore has offered a reward of $1000 for the apprehension of the assassin.

BURNING OF WARSAW BY THE REBELS.
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 22.

Passengers by the train from the West,
report that the Rebels burnt the town of Warsaw, right before last, in order to prevent it from being used as a winter quarters for our troops. The intelligence reached Syracuse just before the train arrived, and is considered reliable.

A quantity of Government stores were destroyed.

A train of eighty wagons, with an escort of two hundred men, left Sedalia a few days ago for Leavenworth. A messenger from the train reached Sedalia at twelve o'clock last night, announcing that they had been attacked near Knub's Nest, by a force of from five to six hundred Rebels,
and the train captured.

Refugees continue to arrive here in great numbers, many of them being in a most deplorable condition.

Reopening of Trade with Eastern Virginia.
BALTIMORE, Nov. 22.

Intercourse has at length reopened with Eastern Virginia. Several boats have already arrived at this port from Annapolis and Northampton counties, with cargoes of grain, oysters, and other provisions.

The loyal Virginians are greatly pleased with the renewed commercial intercourse
and the protection of Government.

The Union feeling is now universal throughout these counties, and those who were hitherto inclined to favor the Rebels have now expressed the Union sense.

Transportation of Stores to Washington.
Over four hundred freight cars, filled with army stores and merchandises, are forwarded daily from Baltimore to the ap-tial by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. Within the past week over four million feet of timber have been transported and an immense quantity of coal,
besides the army stores.

FROM WASHINGTON.
Seizure of Forage—A Reconstruction.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.

The reconnoitering and foraging party under Gen. Robles, which went out yesterday from General Smith's Division, the total possession of Flint Hill and the surrounding country, by throwing out the pickets in different directions, to prevent a surprise, while the largest number gathered and brought away several loads of hay,
having with him less than thirty wagons.
The only evidence of the presence of the reconnoitering party was a quantity of a quantity of hay, and a quantity of tery, one from a prominent position between Fairfax Court House and Centroville, in a westerly direction, about eight miles beyond our outposts. The party retreated late last night, having been occasionally successful, and met with no accidental whatever. Information was received that the Rebels had constructed an artillery road from Flint Hill to Germantown.

The report that Dr. Mulford, Surgeon
of the Thirty-third New York Regiment, was accidentally killed at the review on Wednesday, is untrue. He was not even hurt. The only one slightly injured was Dr. Diskerson, Assistant Surgeon of the same regiment.

Col Taylor, who was arrested under a misapprehension in connection with the raiding over of private on Wednesday,
has been restored to his command.

Important from Missouri.
COLUMBUS, Mo., Nov. 22.

The Statesman published here has information from Newber that the Rebel Legislature of this State, after obtaining a quorum by the appointment of proxi-mately, elected John B. Overt, formerly a member of Congress from Howard county, and R. L. Y. Hays of Cass county, Senators to the Rebel Congress. The Legislature
also appointed members to the Rebel House of Representatives from the different Congressional districts of the State,
among whom are Edmund McDonald, of St. Louis, of Ambois corpus notoriety; T. M.
McIlhenny, of Audrain county, and James R. Case, of Jasper county, all of whom are in Price's army.

St. Louis, Nov. 25.—The work on the mortar feet at this point has not been stopped as stated in the Cincinnati Enquirer, but is progressing rapidly, and the boats are expected to be finished this week. The mortars have been already sent, and are waiting shipment at Pittsburg.

FRACUSE, Mo., Nov. 25.—Intelligence has been received here from Pittsburg that the Rebels have been driven from Osceola, that Price's army crossed the Osage river, at Hoffman's Ferry, on Friday last, and the advanced guard would reach Osceola the following day

Valley Spirit.

CHAMBERSBURG, NOV. 27, 1861.

Meeting of Congress.

On Monday next the Congress of the United States will meet at Washington. It will not be in days of yore, but composed of Senators and Representatives from every State, far now, unfortunately, one-third of the States claim that they are no longer members of the great American Union and refuse to be represented in its Congress.

We do not see that there is likely to be much exciting discussion in either branch of Congress, unless the friends of FARMORT make an issue with the administration. FARMORT gave notice in his St. Louis speech of his intention to stir up the matter of his removal, and some northwestern abolition newspapers and politicians, who think that Slavery can be constitutionally abolished by a proclamation from any body who has a fancy for issuing proclamations, have shown some disposition to back the mulcater against the rail-splitter. If this squabble comes off, we have no doubt that Congress and the people will sustain the President in his action against FARMORT. The abolitionists will find that the North is not prepared to receive millions of negroes set free through the operation of a military proclamation of no greater authority than a Mexican pronouncement.

Government Triumphs.

Up to a very recent period the Confederates have reaped all the substantial triumphs of the war. The wheel of fortune has at length taken a turn the other way, and the government has obtained some decided advantages. Missouri is almost freed from the thrall of Gen. PRATER and his rebel army. Kentucky, lately so seriously threatened, appears to be safe. The destruction of bridges in the rear of the Confederate forces, by the Unionists of East Tennessee, is a hopeful sign for the government. Matters remain in possession of the Union forces, and a still stronger military "colony" has been planted under the stars and stripes on the soil of South Carolina. This Port Royal affair is of much importance. From that point the war can be carried to the heart of the secession country much easier than from the line of the Potomac. Following the capture of Port Royal comes the arrest of SLIDELL and MASON, who were going abroad as diplomatic agents of the Confederate government, the former it is understood being accredited Minister to France and the latter Minister to England. There was great rejoicing in the South when they ran the blockade and escaped to Bermuda, for it was thought they would be able to do great things for the secession cause when they got to Europe. But their capture has dashed that hope and given the government a triumph worth crowing over.

Confederate Wilkes Sustained.

When the President was informed of the arrest of the rebel emissaries, it is said that he declared emphatically that they would not be given up by this government even though a war with England should be the consequence. The law officers of the government also sustain the action of Captain Wilkes upon precedents furnished by international law. It appears that the government received information of the fact that a large quantity of private letters, despatches, bills of exchange, drafts, &c., had been sent after Messrs. Mason and Slidell, from Havana to New York, to follow them to Europe by the steamer, from the latter point. But a few detectives were put on the watch, and secured the whole batch of correspondence before the steamer left.

Early Advances.

We have reason again of an advance in the army of the Potomac, and this time we opine they are entitled to some success. It is said that within the President, General Lee and Gen. McClellan have any idea of allowing the army to go into winter quarters. An advance must be made before the meeting of Congress.

The Arrest of Slidell and Mason.

Somewhat apprehensive of the stoppage of a British mail steamer on the high seas by an American vessel of war, and the taking from her deck of four of her passengers—Messrs. SLIDELL and MASON and their Secretaries—may involve the United States in serious trouble with England. The "right of search" was, down to a very recent period, strenuously insisted on by England. It was always denied and resisted by the United States; and its exercise by England, in spite of our remonstrance, was one of the leading causes of the war of 1812. As the case stands, we have exercised a power which we have always denied the right of England to exercise; and an English vessel has been subjected to an indignity which has often been practiced by an English war vessel upon an unarmed vessel of the United States. Both governments are in a tolerably awkward fix. Ours has upset its own doctrine in stopping and searching a British vessel at sea, and the English will have to turn tail on their own cherished "right of search," in order to make the detention of the Trent a subject of complaint against us.

We have no doubt that England will complain of the act of the commander of the Non Solito. Three courses will then be open to our government: 1st To disavow the act and censure the commander of our vessel; or 2d To avow it and tell England to make the most of it; or 3d To avow it and tender an apology.

The first will hardly be taken. The instructions of the commander of our vessel were probable broad enough to justify him in doing what he did; and if they were, of course disavowal and censure are out of the question. Even if he acted without special instructions, the country would never agree to his being censured, though in that case the government might go so far as to disavow his act.

The second course suggested will commend itself by its strong smell of gunpowder and its total lack of discretion, to the Republican newspapers generally. Led on by the Herald and the Tribune, they have tried very hard to abuse England into a recognition of the Southern Confederacy, and to bully our own government into the commission of some unfriendly act towards England. Thus far they have not succeeded in promoting the rebel cause by a rupture of our peaceful relations with England, though it is evident from the curt tone of Mr. SEWARD's late correspondence with Lord Lyons about a couple of British subjects who had been arrested, that our chief Secretary is gradually losing his once marked discretion under the bad influence of fire-eating Northern prints and politicians.

The third course is the true one for our government to pursue. Of course we shall be pronounced traitors for proposing to apologize to England for the taking of SLIDELL and MASON from the deck of one of her vessels. The Constitution says "treason shall consist in Crying war against the United States" as the Southern people are now doing. But we have in the loyal States a large number of persons whose excessive patriotism leads them to smell treason in everything that does not square with their own ignorant views of national affairs. These will be ready to impeach the loyalty of the President himself, if he offers an apologetic salute to the wounded pride of England. But in spite of all they may say, we hope and believe the President will take the safe and honest course of saying to the British government that the best interests of this country demanded the capture of SLIDELL and MASON; that he regrets the necessity which rendered it necessary to take them from the deck of a British vessel; that no insult to the British flag was intended, and that it is hoped the British government will see in the circumstances of the case enough to excuse the act. An explanation of this sort is due to a friendly nation whose flag, under the pressure of extraordinary circumstances, we have failed to respect; and it promptly made, it will not doubt be received in England.

Government Credit Still Good.

The Secretary of the Treasury has lately been in New York holding another little private chat with the Bank Presidents, and the Banks have agreed to put fifty million dollars more in Uncle Sam's trower's pocket, to help him along with the expensive and disagreeable but necessary job of rubbing "hickory oil" into the backs of his unruly children. It will be a comfort to the gallant fellows in the field, carrying the flag and keeping step to the music of the Union, to know that their pay is sure; and it must be a gratification to every good citizen of the United States, to find that the credit of his government is good even in these trying times.

We must award to Mr. CHASE the meed of praise for his management of the Treasury Department. Thus far at least he has been eminently successful in providing means to liquidate the expenses of the government. He had great difficulties to face. The country had not recovered from the monetary crisis of 1857. There was but little revenue from the ordinary sources, and public confidence even in government securities was badly shaken by the formidable character of the outbreak in the South. It may be said that Mr. CHASE is simply a successful borrower, and that the country is running in debt at an enormous rate. This may be granted, but still it must be admitted that, under the circumstances, it is a great feat in financing to succeed in borrowing enough to meet the extraordinary expenses of the war, and keep the wheels of government going amidst all the embarrassments by which it is at this time surrounded.

Jeff. Davis on the Arrest of Mason and Slidell.

The late Richmond papers contain the message of Jeff. Davis to the rebel Congress. We give below an interesting extract from the document in regard to the arrest of the Rebel Commissioners Mason and Slidell. Davis, as ingeniously as he argues the case, will scarcely succeed in inducing England to adopt his views as they are the very antipodes to the theory she has always contended for, and the practice she has always pursued under similar circumstances. England, for the mere sake of favoring such a scheme of madness and folly as the Southern rebellion, would hardly be so incoherent as to go to war with the United States to prohibit the right of search when she has already hazarded several wars to establish that doctrine. Here are the views that President Davis proounds on this question and we must say that they are in perfect keeping with the subtilty of the man. We will venture to say that President Lincoln will not be able to condense his views on this momentous question into so small a compass or "sugar-coat" them so skillfully.

"But not content with violating our rights under the law of nations at home, they have extended these injuries to us with a other jurisdiction. The distinguished gentlemen whom, with your approval at the last session, I commissioned to represent the Confederacy at certain foreign Courts have been recently seized by the Captains of a United States ship, on board a British steamer, on their voyage from the central Spanish port of Havana to England."

"The United States have thus claimed a general jurisdiction over the high sea, and by entering a British ship, sailing under its own country's flag, violating the rights of embassy, for the most part held sacred even amongst barbarians, by seizing our ministers while they were under the protection and within the dominions of a neutral nation. These gentlemen were seized under the jurisdiction of the British Government upon that ship, and beneath its flag, as if they had been on the soil, and a claim on the part of the United States to seize them in the streets of London would have been as well founded as that which is now urged upon us. Had they been mistaken, or otherwise, even if the United States ship could not have been entered on a British ship or on British soil, unless under the express provisions of a treaty, and according to the laws thereby provided for the extradition of criminals."

REMOVAL OF THE REBEL CAPITAL.—The Richmond Register says that the Congress of the Confederate States has voted to remove the capital from Richmond to Columbia, and Congress will meet there.

F. S. Senate.

If there is one party in the country that has more reason to complain of the Democratic party, it is the Democratic party. A very good illustration of the damage it has sustained through this cause may be found in the present political complexion of the United States Senate. Where the Democratic party but lately boasted of its power and influence it has been shorn of its strength by this abominable heresy and reduced to an insignificant minority leaving the party scarcely a voice in the councils of the nation. The number of Democratic Senators left us by secession are indeed "few and far between." Senator Breckinridge of Kentucky has resigned and Senator Powell from the same State will also probably not take his seat again in the Senate. It is stated to be doubtful if the Missouri Senators will take their seats as by the Proclamation of Governor Jackson, that State was declared out of the Union. Senators Pearce and Kennedy, of Maryland, and Bayard and Saulsbury of Delaware, will probably be the only Senators from the Southern States. Senators Rice of Minnesota, Bright of Indiana and Thompson of New Jersey will be the only Democrats from the Northern States. From California and Oregon will be Senators Latham and McDougal, and NeSmith, also Democrats. Kentucky will most probably elect two Union Senators at the coming session of the Legislature.

Contested Seats.

There will be a lively time next winter in contesting seats in the House of Representatives. Horman Bragg proposes to contest the seat of John McMillin, of the Sixth Legislative District. Mr. Myers, of Adams county, proposes contesting the seat of Mr. Busby. Mr. Casma, of Bedford county, will contest the seat of Mr. Householder, and the seat of one, perhaps two members, of Luzerne, will be contested.

Pensacola.

We may soon hear that Pensacola has been taken. The Navy Department make no concealment of the fact that dispatches are expected daily from the Gulf with an account of the opening of the guns of Fort Pickens on the rebel batteries. Col. Brown has repeatedly written for orders to be allowed to blow Bragg from the opposite shore and he has at last received the word to "pitch in."

LOCAL NEWS.

HALF SHEET.—We issue but a half sheet of our paper this week in order to afford the hands in our office an opportunity of enjoying Thanksgiving Day. Printers as well as the "rest of mankind" must have some chance to "recuperate," and as the Governor of the State has vouchsafed to give other people one day in the year for that purpose the printers say they are bound to participate nonis rolens. We are sure our subscribers will not object, but if any are disposed to grumble we would say to them we'll make it all right at the end of the year.

WHERE ARE WE DRIFTING?—A short time ago one of our Merchants was swindled out of about $75 worth of silks by a young girl. A "contraband" relieved another Merchant of a couple of hams in a sharp way. An attempt at "shoplifting" a piece of calico, by a woman, was made in one of our stores the other day. An overcoat was stolen from one of our Hotels last week. A young man was robbed on our public streets a few nights ago, and several other thefts have been committed in and about town within a short time past. We seem to be "advancing backwards" in honesty and morality, and as no arrests have been made, and nobody converted from the "error of their ways," it is likely we'll keep advancing so far as law and gospel are concerned.

HARRISBURG PAPER.—The proprietors of the Daily Patriot & Union announce that it will be furnished to subscribers at the very low rate of one dollar during the season of the Legislature.

The approaching session of Congress and the State Legislature will be invited with unusual importance in consequence of the existing state of affairs, and the prospect of a new year will bear in the minds of those to whom with the Legislature is connected up to the moment of going to press.

FIRE AT THE POOR HOUSE.—On Friday night last, we are informed a slight fire occurred at the Poor House. It broke out in one of the rooms of the building occupied by the Steward and his family but was fortunately discovered just in time to save the entire building from being laid in ashes. It seems that a fire was made in a stove and left burning without any person being in the room and that some time after on the room being entered it was found in flames. The floor around the stove, the bed, and a considerable quantity of clothing were very much burnt, and some damage done to that part of the building by the means used to extinguish the fire. The alarm of fire in the building occasioned considerable fright among the inmates but the Steward and his family exerted themselves nobly in procuring order, arresting the flames, and thereby saving the building from destruction.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—Next Thursday, by the Governor's appointment, will be Thanksgiving. As this Yankee substitute for Christmas has been pretty well domesticated in Pennsylvania—not, let us be thankful, to the exclusion of "Merry Christmas," but as an additional holiday—we suppose it will be generally observed by our citizens, notwithstanding they make a sort of Thanksgiving feast out of the President's fast-day. According to custom, the Banks and Public Offices will be closed, so that persons who have business with either on that day, would do well to attend to it on Wednesday.

ROBBERY.—A young man, a stranger in this place, was robbed of his watch, a valuable one, and a hundred dollars in money, on Friday night last, by some scamps into whose hands he had fallen while under the influence of liquor. The parties committing the theft can hardly escape detection and he had better resort to some method of privately returning the watch and money than run the risk of serving a term in the Penitentiary.

BANK OF CHAMBERSBURG.—An election for Directors of this institution was held at the Banking House, on the 18 inst., and the following gentlemen were chosen: President—Wm. Heysler. Directors—Jm. Davidson, G. W. Immel, J. McDowell, John Huber, Sam'l Radebaugh, J. C. Lyster, A. Stouffer, W. McLellan, H. Greenawald, C. M. Duncan, E. Culbertson, J. Cressler.

NEW GOODS.—Our Town Merchants have returned from the cities with full supplies of Fall and Winter Goods, and we never know them so determined to give bargains, in every description of goods, as at the present time. By reference to the advertising columns of the Spirit, our town and country friends can always see where they can purchase goods to the best advantage.

CHAMBERSBURG PUBLIC LIBRARY.—All interested in the Chamberburg Public Library, are requested to attend a meeting to be held next Friday-night, the 29th inst., at 7 o'clock, at the Library Room in the Mansion House, for the purpose of deciding whether the Library shall be continued or closed. A full attendance is earnestly requested. By order of the President, Wm. Heysler, Secretary.
