CHAMBERSBURG, DEC. 4, 1861

President Davis' Message.

The Confederate Congress reassembled at Richmond on the 18th ult., and on the 19th President Davis sent in his message. It piously opens with an expression of "gratitude to Providence for His kind interposition" in behalf of the rebellious people of the South.

Mr. DAVIS tries to justify his invasion of Kentucky by saying that the Confederate forces "were marched into that State to repel the enemy and prevent their occupation of certain strategic points which would have given them great advantages in the contest."

President DAVIS appears to be vexed on account of the inefficiency of the blockade of his ports. He has gone to the trouble, he says, to collect evidence showing that the government of the United States has not put down the blockading screws as tight as they ought to be according to the law laid down at the Paris Conference.

Mr. DAVIS concludes his message by endeavoring to alarm the manufacturing countries of the world with the probable consequences of a diversion of Southern labor "from those great staples which have given life to the commerce of mankind into other channels."

The strict constructionists of Virginia, who raised a rumpus about Mr. BUCHANAN'S recommendation of the extension of aid to a Pacific Railroad, must have had their nervous system shocked by Mr. DAVIS' flat-footed declaration in favor of aiding in the construction of a Railroad from Danville, Va., to Greensborough, N. C., to complete a line deemed of great importance to the South.

with contemptuous astonishment on those with whom they have been so recently associated, and thus "they shrink with aversion from the bare idea of averting such a connection." These declarations leave no hope for anything but a continuance of the war.

The Confederate President advertises of course to the capture of SAIDELL and MASON, and endeavors to make it appear that the insult we have given to England is as great as if we had taken the Confederate Ministers in the streets of London.

President DAVIS appears to be vexed on account of the inefficiency of the blockade of his ports. He has gone to the trouble, he says, to collect evidence showing that the government of the United States has not put down the blockading screws as tight as they ought to be according to the law laid down at the Paris Conference.

Mr. DAVIS concludes his message by endeavoring to alarm the manufacturing countries of the world with the probable consequences of a diversion of Southern labor "from those great staples which have given life to the commerce of mankind into other channels."

The message is brief and in general dignified—with, however, a little too much unfounded complaint about our method of conducting the war, which has certainly been humane and free from excesses of any sort.

From Washington. WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. Congress was organized to-day at noon, a quorum appearing in both branches. The President's message will be delivered to-morrow.

It was reported that several vessels had been burned in London so near to the British coast that they had been taken.

Putting Down the Curfew. In Forney's Press, (after it had been ascertained that the Democrats had carried Pennsylvania by a sweeping majority,) it was suggested to the Republicans that they should withdraw all patronage from Democratic newspapers.

Of course every man has a right to advertise in whatever paper he pleases, or not advertise at all, if it suits him better. But, when worse our business men, who happen to be Republicans, all at once withdraw their advertisements from Democratic journals, it affords strong presumptive evidence that a preconcerted understanding and agreement existed, and that they were actuated by their political opinions.

And has it come to this? Must persecuting rampant Abolitionism be permitted to interfere with the private business of men, and must we hereafter deal with those only who agree with us in politics? He is a craven-hearted bigot who would dare make such a suggestion.

It is positively astonishing how bitter and vindictive some men permit themselves to become. This is a peculiarity of Abolitionism; no other party ever possessed this trait. They talk on few other subjects than politics—think of nothing else—dream of nothing but Sambo and his "feters."

Senators Powell and Polk, and Ex-Senator Green.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, of Monday last, says, Senators Powell, of Kentucky, and Polk, of Missouri, see here. Ex-Senator Green, of Missouri, who has thrice been arrested as a spy, in Missouri, is here, circulating around with the army.

He seems very anxious to hear from the Legislature of Kentucky, now in session, but we have no news from there to-night. It is thought that they will elect two Senators, and that they will give the title by the Senate, and that Powell will then resign and go down to Richmond.

Gov. Ludinus Usher, of Texas, has been appointed United States Consul at Ancona, Italy. He was the exiled Governor of Oregon, 1857.

Interesting Letter. We have been favored for publication with the following highly interesting letter written by a young gentleman, now serving as Corporal in the U. S. Marine service, to a relative. The writer claims Chambersburg as his native place. He entered the U. S. regular service at an early day in the break-up of the rebellion—was at the battle of Bull Run where he had the credit of fighting in one of the very few companies that distinguished itself, on that disastrous day, for coolness and bravery.

BAY POINT, S. C.

I am happy to get this opportunity to address you, after having passed through a very narrow escape from a watery grave. After leaving the barracks we remained at Hampton Roads for near two weeks, when we sailed on Tuesday morning in company with the fleet, on board the steamboat Governor.

During the time of the rising of the storm I was sitting on a barrel, in the stern of the boat, not expecting to witness the scenes that should soon follow. The storm now becoming frightful, while we were in a boat unfit to stand the ocean.

It is true that, according to high authorities, I might at one time hold the two positions; but it is plain that I could not perform the duties of both, and, waiving the bare legal question, it seems to me to be incompatible with the character of a representative and a legislator to be a paid officer, subject to the orders of the Executive, and present in his place only by the revocable leave of a military superior.

My political opinions are what they have always been. I am a Democrat—never more one than at this hour. I rejoice that it was my name upon your banners that you overthrew the Republican party in this city.

During Saturday a gun boat came to us and attempted to take us in tow, but failed. While thus engaged, the schooner Rover came to us also, but was unable to assist us—the sea continuing rough—ran off; oh, how we hoped for her assistance. In the afternoon, two sails reported in sight, our hopes for deliverance increased. Later the Rover neared us and informed us that the Sabine was coming.

ing the boat still kept above water, they commenced saving the cargo. All the muskets, bolts, ammunition, a number of knapsacks, officer's goods and clothing were saved. I lost everything. Coming aboard the Sabine with a suit of clothing on, minus a coat. Having taken off my coat on Friday afternoon to work, it got lost during the excitement. While we were in danger there was considerable praying which I believe, may know, was answered.

I wish you would write to me, and send me a paper occasionally. Address them, Marine Battalion, Bay Point, South Carolina. Should I move from here I suppose they will be forwarded.

You have learned, doubtless through the official report, all the particulars of the capture of this place. We have plenty of camp equipage left here by the enemy, but we are still being poorly provided with provisions—especially bread. There is a deficiency somewhere. Since leaving Washington we have been in a continued state of confusion about our rations, having been poorly provided for, or miserably attended to during most of the whole time.

We are on a barren and sandy island. The climate is hot at mid-day, cool and damp at night, foggy in the morning, with innumerable mosquitoes. So far I have enjoyed health, and endured all the trials very well. Hope though to be delivered soon from this place.

J. M. D.

Letter from Col. Charles J. Biddle.

The following letter was written by Col. Biddle, Member of Congress from Philadelphia, in reply to an invitation from prominent citizens of Philadelphia, to partake of a public dinner:

To the Honorable, George M. Dallas, Charles J. Ingersoll, Peter B. S. P. Garrison, Frederick Douglass, Henry M. Phillips, Esq., and others.

It has been my earnest desire, at this great juncture in our National affairs, to give my humble services where they may be most useful to my country. With this purpose I took the field; and holding, during the period of the Extra Session, a separate and important command, I did not feel at liberty to quit it to take the seat in Congress to which you had, in my absence, elected me.

I have come, for a day or two, from the great camp in front of Washington, where I command a regiment that has been to me a source of the highest pride and satisfaction, and I shall leave it with feelings of regret that I will not attempt to express here. But, I yield to the representations of the wishes of my constituents conveyed to me in your letter and in other forms. I shall, therefore, tender, through the proper authorities, the resignation of my military commission from the State, and, as your representative, will return to Washington.

It is true that, according to high authorities, I might at one time hold the two positions; but it is plain that I could not perform the duties of both, and, waiving the bare legal question, it seems to me to be incompatible with the character of a representative and a legislator to be a paid officer, subject to the orders of the Executive, and present in his place only by the revocable leave of a military superior.

My political opinions are what they have always been. I am a Democrat—never more one than at this hour. I rejoice that it was my name upon your banners that you overthrew the Republican party in this city.

When I say I am a Democrat, I do not mean that I belong to any knot of politicians. When I say I am a Democrat, I mean that I have ever maintained those national principles which, under God, made and preserved us a nation; those great national principles of justice and equality for all the States which, so long as they were practiced, made our various institutions and interchangeable commodities bonds of strength and union rather than grounds for strife.

When the national flag was struck down at Charleston, and the national capital was threatened by Sumner, the North rose like one man. The world saw with astonishment the great spirit of the people; Europe rejoiced because in our favor; yet, as if omitted with blindness, the Republican leaders seemed striving to waste and dissipate, instead of to aid and use, the noble material for great armies, which was, with scarcely any limit, placed at their disposal. The soldier who offered himself for the public service found that he must out-wait some politician before he could be allowed the privilege to fight or die for his country. Men began to say that the war was to be made "a Black Republican job."

Politicians were put at the head of troops—politicians who thought that to wear less and feathers, and to pocket pay, was the whole duty of the officer—feasting and frolicking and speakeasting took the place of training and discipline; and while the officer spotted and revelled, the rank and file were robbed of their first right—the right to skillful guidance and instruction. The rains were non-stop put into the hands of a venal and obsequious; but every politician, every "able editor" took a pull at these, till they upset the coach.

Audacious abouts of "On to Richmond," the North, with its teeming population, found itself outnumbered at every point of conflict, and the battle of Bull Run proved that the Administration had known neither its own strength nor the enemy's. "Where then were our legions?" we may ask of it. But the battle of Bull Run was not without its fruits for us. Pale-stricken selfishness, seeking self-preservation, lighted on those who could save it. The direction of the army passed into the hands of soldiers. A General, born here among us, restored to their due supremacy the martial virtues that insure success in war; trained and competent officers seconded his efforts, scores of imbeciles have been phased out of service; and this good work still progresses.

The Democratic party will sustain the war—the McClellens, the Pacons—who have in charge the honor of our flag on land and sea. Let, everywhere, the people put in office men who will not see the war become a "party job"; let the administration of the Government be such as to attract, not repel, the doubtful States. Then the contest may be continued with success and ended with honor. We may yet see the authors of our national troubles, those twin monsters of discord—the Abolitionists of the North and the Secessionists of the South—reduced again to the harmless insignificance in which Democracy long held them. And if the event falls these hopes, the government that embraces the great, rich and populous States of the North, must sink to no humble, no degraded place among the nations. National prosperity is too nearly allied to national dignity to suffer us to stand in the relation of the vanquished to those who never can sever from geographical connection; with whom close relations, amicable or amicable, must continue always.

The Democratic party sought to keep the peace among the States with honor to them all; but while the war lasts, into which the Abolitionists of the North and the "precipitous" aims of the South have hurried us, let us demand that a firm and wise administration of the Government shall evoke and honestly apply our military resources, in which the nations' common interests in arms have not surpassed nor equaled us.

In conclusion, gentlemen, let me say that I am deeply sensible of the honor of representing this old city; for our District is the old city that our fathers knew and loved.

As your representative, I will exercise the right of free speech, and will strive to maintain, for all, the cherished rights, the enjoyment of which constitute civil liberty. My stay here does not allow me to accept the compliment of a public dinner; to which you do me the honor to invite me. To see you and other valued friends will at all times afford the greatest pleasure to Respectfully and truly yours, CHARLES J. BIDDLE.

Emancipation Act.

It is currently reported, says the Washington Dispatch, that the Philadelphia Inquirer, of this morning, that Thaddeus Stevens will open the ball to-morrow, by introducing a bill for emancipating and sending slaves, and will then attempt to push it through to get a vote upon it. Senator Sumner has not spoken yet, but will be here to-morrow, and will push the subject to the limit.

The bill for the abolition of the 13th Amendment, which was introduced in the Senate on the 2d inst., was yesterday reached the crucial stage of its progress.
