Lincoln, as described by an eye-witness.
 How A. H. H. Stuart, in a speech delivered in the Court House on Monday night, described Lincoln, a number of the citizens of Augusta, said he hoped the audience would pardon him in a brief digression, inasmuch as he had never had the honor of seeing his excellency, the President.
 Abraham, he stated, was as well known to him as he was to the audience. He had seen him a half taller than himself. Mr. Stuart over six feet high, an awkward, heavy, frog legs, with hands like rocks, shaggy eyebrows, and feet like mallets.
