

Staunton Spectator.

STAUNTON, VA.

TUESDAY, MAY 1, 1860.

THE STAUNTON SPECTATOR has been enlarged to a larger size than any other paper published in Western Virginia, and an additional page is added to it as an advertising medium.

Federal Communications. Pope Pius IX has issued a bull of excommunication against the King of Spain and all other persons who have been covered, directly or indirectly, in "his infelicitous" in the provinces, "in usurping, occupying and invading them."

This proceeding has called to mind a remark of Monsey, in his essay on Burke's History of the Pope. The Church of Rome, he says, "with all its faults, has the same spirit, the same spirit which has sanctified it."

Although a hundred copies or more of Prof. Campbell's "Scientific and Practical Agriculture" have already been sold in Augusta, there are many factors yet, who need the book, and Robert Cowan can supply them.

The city authorities of Richmond have passed an ordinance prohibiting the removal of gas fixtures by persons violating, without giving notice to the Superintendent of the gas works.

A letter from Sicily gives an account of most horrible crimes practiced there upon persons charged with political offenses. The prisoners have been tortured almost to death to induce them to confess, and the wife of one of the accused has been subjected to the most unheard of indignities and sufferings to compel her to betray her husband.

English fights no duels. English noblemen and English country gentlemen, with tolerable light ideas, manage to get over the awkward results which it is said must occur upon its relinquishment. In 1808—the first, is a good deal of the history was picked out of the system by the very rude treatment to which Mr. Campbell was subjected for opposing the King.

Mr. J. F. Gibson, heretofore traveling agent for Adams & Co's Express Company, between this place and Richmond, has been appointed local agent at Lynchburg.

The Medical Association of Virginia have appointed Drs. F. T. Scribbling and A. Alex. Waddell, of this place, delegates to the National Society, which meets at New Haven, Connecticut, in June next.

These will be a meeting of the people held at Staunton on Saturday the 5th day of May, at 10 o'clock P. M. The object of the meeting will be to select other delegates to the National Convention, to be held at Washington, for the office of ex-president.

Official operations from Texas, dated the 18th inst., speak of the disturbed condition of the country, and the general opinion of the Southern States, and the general opinion of the Southern States, and the general opinion of the Southern States.

Married in Richmond. A party of friends, including Mr. [Name], and calling themselves the Richmond Convention, met at the [Location], and [Action].

After getting up the table out of the way, the Convention resolved, by acclamation, that no debating for the hour should take place on the platform.
