

Staunton Spectator.

STAUNTON, VA. WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 22, 1862.

Wood

Those who wish to furnish wood for their subscription will please do so at once, as we wish to lay in our winter supply.

Condition of our Army.

Feeling sensibly impressed with the duty incumbent upon us of doing all we can for the relief of our gallant soldiers who are over now suffering for the want of good winter clothing, and whose sufferings will increase as the season advances, we would again call upon our readers to go to work immediately and perform the duty which patriotism and humanity impose upon them.

We understand that the Government has already forwarded to General Lee's army over 30,000 garments, and a large shipment of shoes. This number of garments, allowing a coat, pair of pants, and shirt to a man, will furnish suits, say, for 10,000 needy men.

These garments are merely rough estimates, and are only intended to serve the purpose of directing the attention of the people to the magnitude of the labor before them. After the Government shall have done all it can, there will still be much to be done for the warm hearts and willing hands of the people to perform.

Let Justice Be Done. In speaking of enforcing the act of Conscription, the Knoxville Register says: "The law encountered opposition in Georgia and in Virginia, through the factiousness of the Governors of those States, but the people patriotically sustained the Government, and it has been enforced."

These are times when all should lend a helping hand to the protection of our country and the preservation of our liberties. Those who are not upon the battle field should labor and give liberally of their means to promote the comfort as far as possible of those gallant soldiers who are braving the storm of war and enduring untold and inconceivable privations for the protection of our lives, homes and liberties.

When our paper went to press last week, it was supposed, from information received at that time, that another battle would be fought between the armies of Bragg and Buell on the 11th, which we feared, from the superior numbers of the enemy, might result unfavorably to our army; but the result has shown that Bragg inflicted such a severe blow upon Buell at the battle of Perryville, on the 8th, that he was unable or unwilling to attack him on the 11th.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

These are times when all should lend a helping hand to the protection of our country and the preservation of our liberties. Those who are not upon the battle field should labor and give liberally of their means to promote the comfort as far as possible of those gallant soldiers who are braving the storm of war and enduring untold and inconceivable privations for the protection of our lives, homes and liberties.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

When our paper went to press last week, it was supposed, from information received at that time, that another battle would be fought between the armies of Bragg and Buell on the 11th, which we feared, from the superior numbers of the enemy, might result unfavorably to our army; but the result has shown that Bragg inflicted such a severe blow upon Buell at the battle of Perryville, on the 8th, that he was unable or unwilling to attack him on the 11th.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Captain of the "Augusta Lee Rifles" has kindly furnished us with a list of the names of those of that gallant Company who have been killed, wounded and died of disease since the organization of that company. He says, "It is easy to account for the large proportion who have died from disease when we consider the hardships and exposure to which his company was subjected during the campaign in the mountains of North Western Virginia, and that it is remarkable that so few were wounded and only one killed when we consider the fact that the company was actively engaged in the infantry fight on Alleghany, at McDowell, Cross Keys, under fire at Fort Republic and the series of battles before Richmond, and at Manassas, before being in the charge made by General Early's Brigade at Manassas and Sharpshurg. Nothing but a kind overruling Providence could have preserved them from being cut to pieces during the terrific firing to which they were subjected in the above battles.

List of casualties up to the present time in company "D," "Augusta Lee Rifles," 25th Va. Reg't., (Captain Robert D. Lilley): Killed—John T. Wood, in battle Alleghany, Dec. 18th, 1861.

This subject is again attracting the attention of the public. The papers report that Mr. Geo. N. Saunders, late commissioner to Europe, who smuggled himself into Canada, has returned to Richmond and brings intelligence of an early recognition of the Confederacy by the Powers of Europe. Belgium has already taken the initiative and will be followed by other nations, by whose aid and consent she is acting.

The Richmond Enquirer says that our government is in receipt of no official intelligence as to any probable change in the attitude of England and France toward our recognition. The news received through the public press, however, would prepare us to expect that the rulers of those countries will specifically review the question, and come to a new and different decision.

The County Court of Alleghany has instructed the Committee, heretofore appointed, to have issued a further amount of $20,000, one-half of that sum in fifty and the other half in twenty five cent notes.

The "Augusta Lee Rifles" has kindly furnished us with a list of the names of those of that gallant Company who have been killed, wounded and died of disease since the organization of that company. He says, "It is easy to account for the large proportion who have died from disease when we consider the hardships and exposure to which his company was subjected during the campaign in the mountains of North Western Virginia, and that it is remarkable that so few were wounded and only one killed when we consider the fact that the company was actively engaged in the infantry fight on Alleghany, at McDowell, Cross Keys, under fire at Fort Republic and the series of battles before Richmond, and at Manassas, before being in the charge made by General Early's Brigade at Manassas and Sharpshurg. Nothing but a kind overruling Providence could have preserved them from being cut to pieces during the terrific firing to which they were subjected in the above battles.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

The Lynchburg "Virginian" says that the "net results of Bragg's campaign consist of a victory at Munterville, with the capture of nearly 15,000 prisoners and several thousand stand of arms—a victory at Perryville, in which the enemy were driven back with great slaughter, losing 500 prisoners and fifteen heavy guns—and the securing of provisions and clothing enough to last the entire army of the West through the winter.

VALUABLE REAL AND PERSONAL ESTATE FOR SALE. On THURSDAY, the 10th day of October, 1862, at the late residence of the late Mrs. Wm. B. Young, deceased, and before the hands of Mr. Wm. B. Young, Executor, the following real and personal estate, consisting of...

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT NO. 2. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.

FOR THE WEEK END. The following is a list of the names of the officers and soldiers of the 2nd Virginia Cavalry, who were killed, wounded or died of disease since the organization of that company.