Staunton Spectator

STAUNTON, VA. TUESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 3, 1862.

The People and the War. With the Richmond Enquirer, we are delighted with the display of patriotism...

On Wednesday, General Hampton's Cavalry captured a Yankee picket, consisting of a lieutenant and five men, at Bedford Bluffs, north of Fredericksburg.

On Tuesday last, at Carrville, in Isle of Wight county, Judge's New York Mounted Riflemen encountered some of our cavalry and a portion of Captain Wright's Horse Battery...

Our limited space has made it necessary for us to abbreviate some of the obituaries sent us for publication.

Lincoln's message to the Yankee Congress will excite the contemptuous derision of all civilized nations.

The resolutions adopted by the officers of the 5th Regiment in honor of Col. Wm. S. H. Baylor, deceased, were not received at this office till last week.

The people of the North are beginning to feel that the war, if not soon closed with success on their part, will not be a "paying job."

With the Richmond Examiner, we trust and believe that defeats are in store for them even more signal than any they have ever yet suffered.

A correspondent of the Petersburg Express, who has visited the locality, writes that the Abolitionists burnt forty-two houses, large and small, in their recent raid upon the town of Hamilton.

The charges brought against this officer by Brigadier General John S. Bowen, have been dismissed. The Court Martial, composed of Generals Sterling Price, Lloyd Tighman and Dabney H. Maury, decided that the evidence disproved every allegation in the charges.

Remember the Soldier.—Keep the soldier warm. Work for him, sew for him, night and day. He is out on a blessed mission of patriotism, exposed to cold, hunger, and the bullets of the enemy.

The Petersburg Express gives the following list of the increased prices of some of the articles used in the publication of a paper which compels it to increase its charges. It says:

This gentleman was announced in the last Spectator as a candidate for the Legislature in the place of Wm. M. Tate, Esq.

Mr. Peyton is a son of John Hove Peyton, who was so long known in our community as one of the first lawyers of Virginia.

Mr. Peyton has many advantages of education, and he has among his few men of his age better read in English and improving literature, and more thoroughly informed upon historical and political subjects.

Mr. Peyton is a young gentleman of unexceptionable character, and as he is physically disqualified for service in the army, I think the community will do well to secure his talents in a field of service for which he is well qualified and prepared.

Many voters of the county of Augusta extending a high respect for the integrity, intelligence and patriotism of J. Givens Patton, Esq., intend to vote for him as successor to Wm. M. Tate, Esq., and respectfully invite their fellow citizens to do so.

In a speech delivered at Crawfordville, Georgia, on the 10th of November, Vice-President Alex. H. Stephens, paid the following just tribute to the noble ladies of our country:

Mr. Peyton is a son of John Hove Peyton, who was so long known in our community as one of the first lawyers of Virginia.
